

How demand spikes are Exposing Vulnerability in Data Centres

Demand Spikes Compress Security Margins

Load surges reduce tolerance across power and cooling systems.

Operational access expands the attack surface

Increased intervention raises physical security exposure

Failures propagate faster at scale

Local incidents escalate rapidly without containment.

Security governance is tested under load

Clear authority and fast escalation become critical.

